New fantasy film Homunculus comes to Brookings

Community leaders at Full Sail University are hosting a screening of the new, animated fantasy Homunculus on September 29, 2019.

Homunculus follows the story of a young and insecure apprentice, as his master of magic leads him into a mysterious temple under the desert. This however, is not the selfless act of teaching he makes it seem as he tries to steal the temple's magic and use his ward as a sacrifice.

Student Elizabeth Daugherty wrote the 10-minute screenplay for a workshop under the instruction of award-winning Carol Benanti in the month-long class. She then assembled a team of animators who enjoyed the story.

The moral of the film is to stand up for oneself and to allot trust carefully.

The screening is on the 29th of September on the Full Sail campus.

Full Sail University encourages creativity and the collaboration of artists to create lasting, meaningful projects that are successful.

Screening Date: September 29, 2019
Screening Time: 5pm
Screening Location: Full Sail University
Admission/Suggested Donation: Free

This event is open to the public.
